

The copy-an-angle construction can be justified by SSS triangle congruence (above). So can the bisect-an-angle construction (below). Keeping the compass opening the same allows us to copy distances, making congruent sides.

